

Water, Air Pollution Probable Topics for Any Special Session

By RICHARD RICHARDS
State Senator

Present indications are that subjects to be considered at a special session of the Legislature, along with the 30-day budget session in March, will be confined to two or three of the state's most pressing problems.

This was the impression I gathered in Sacramento last week and it bears out my own appraisal of the coming session this far in advance of our actual meeting date.

In the last analysis, of course, it will be the Governor who will determine the business of a special session, since it is he alone who may issue the call for such a session.

HE HAS, however, been consulting with legislators and department heads as to what problems are in need of immediate attention, and it is my understanding that the agenda will be announced within the coming month.

One subject which almost certainly be included in the special call is that of air pollution, while the probabilities are even greater that water development will be omitted from the call.

These are the only two predictions I would venture to make at this point, and in both cases I am in agreement with the Governor's probable decision.

AS TO AIR pollution, the Department of Public Health has now determined standards for the purity of air and for motor vehicle exhaust emissions, and we are thus in position to enact further legislation based on these determinations.

I am also hopeful that additional measures can be enacted to bring the state into direct participation in the control of air pollution, as I have been advocating ever since my first session in the Legislature.

IN THE MATTER of water development, it is feared that any attempt to open up this subject would only lead to further conflict and a possible deadlock like the one that tied up the last budget session in 1958.

There is also a possibility that the session might be extended to include a proposal to redefine the functions and control of state institutions of higher learning, in accordance with a plan that has already been approved by the University of California regents and the State Board of Education.

ASIDE FROM the budget, no very extensive legislative program is contemplated for the short session in even-numbered years, since its duration is limited by the constitution to a period of only 30 days.

Present plans are for the Legislature to convene on Feb. 1 for three days, in order to receive the budget and refer it to the appropriate committees for detailed study.

The two houses will then recess for the remainder of February, when they will reconvene for the balance of the session at the beginning of March.

Actress to Speak to Dinner Club

In spite of the thrills of Hollywood, Betty Roadman, a character actress who has had dozens of roles in hit movies and who has been a resident of the movie capital for more than 25 years, still prefers to talk about "her boys" in the Pacific Islands and what she saw of American democracy out there with an entertainment unit.

It is "An Actress looks at America" as she prefers to title her talk, that she will give to members of the Executives' Dinner Club of the Torrance Area which meets Wednesday evening, Jan. 6 at 7:30 p.m.

Mrs. Roadman who is a graduate of William Woods College, Fulton, Miss. and of Columbia College of Drama, Chicago, has had parts in such popular movies as "Hitler's Children," "The Life of Mark Twain," "The Burning Cross," "The Man Who Came to Dinner" and others. In spite of her success, she prefers to live a quiet life in Hollywood, taking time out for an occasional speaking trip here and there.

"Mom" Roadman is more than a character actress, spending some time lecturing. She toured the entire state of Washington recently for the Teacher's Institute, talking on "Democracy in Action," a vivid account of her personal experiences in the Pacific with "her boys."
